In the heart of Florence, you will enter a creative space where clay and natural elements meet in a slow and intuitive process. Here you will take time to work with your hands and shape something of your own.

Guided step by step, you will model your vase starting from clay. Little by little, you will enter the rhythm of the work, allowing your movements to become increasingly fluid and conscious.

The next phase will be dedicated to decoration: using fresh or dried flowers, you will create textures and details on the surface, imprinting delicate and organic marks into the clay.

The most significant moment comes when the vase begins to take shape under your hands.
And in the end, before you will be a unique object, born from a process you experienced firsthand.

An authentic way to experience Florence through creation, taking home something that tells the story of time spent in the city.
