A table full of colours, paper ready to absorb every shade, and nature as a starting point. In this workshop, you enter a creative space where everything invites you to slow down and be inspired.

Guided by Maria Rita, you will start with simple exercises to get comfortable with brushes and water. Then you will move on to your floral composition, choosing palettes and shapes, building a balance between solids and voids. The process is gradual, designed to guide you without pressure, even if you have never painted before.

During the experience, your movements become more natural and the colour begins to follow your rhythm, transforming a simple subject into something personal.

What makes this experience special

• A simple way to get into watercolour without feeling "out of place"
• Floral compositions that arise from your taste, not rigid rules
• Two hours to truly switch off and focus only on colour and gesture
• The presence of the artist who guides you without taking away your freedom
• Possibility to include an aperitif to make the session more relaxed and convivial
